Weekend Strike Team

ONE PLANNING SHEET · ONE CO-OP RUN · EVERYONE AFKS WHEN THEY NEED TO

RUN DATE

_____

Start ⏱️ _____

This is the household as a pick-up group: whoever can show up, shows up; nobody rage-quits over dishes. Plan one short co-op run for the weekend (60–90 minutes is usually plenty), assign roles by vibe rather than by age, and keep the pull list honest — three targets beat ten. End with a debrief, hand out XP, and let people go.

ROLES Party comp for the run

Tank

Takes the job everyone else avoids. Steady, unbothered, armed with trash bags.

Play: .....

Support

Keeps the run moving: snacks, water, music, timer, morale.

Play: .....

Healer

Follows behind the tank, restoring order: folding, resetting, putting things away.

Play: .....

DPS

High-burst finisher for the single messy room, pile, or situation.

Play: .....

PULL LIST What we're taking on today

TARGETS (KEEP IT TO THREE)

1. .....
2. .....
3. .....

Optional stretch, only if the run is flowing:

\+ .....

PREP BEFORE THE RUN (PRE-RAID CHECKLIST)

- ☐ Cleared a timer / picked a length
- ☐ Bags, wipes, and tools at the door
- ☐ Snacks + hydration staged
- ☐ Music / playlist sorted
- ☐ Out-of-the-way off-ramp picked
- ☐ Prize or treat decided, if any

ETIQUETTE Group rules for this run

- ☐ AFK is allowed. Anyone can bow out at any point — no explanation owed.
- ☐ Low-energy counts. A quiet corner-clearing is a full contribution.
- ☐ No backseat questing. If someone's pulled a job, it's theirs for today.
- ☐ Leave the lair better. Even half-finished counts as a dent, not a fail.

DEBRIEF (5 MINUTES, END OF RUN)

- Best moment:

.....

- Sole survivor / unsung hero:

.....

- XP handed out (total):

.....

Divided however the party agreed → leaderboard.

- Next run idea:

.....